Editorial

‘Sofia’, the first un programmed robot has shattered the hitherto conceptions of man and machine. Interestingly Sofia's identity has been first recognized by Soudi Arabia by granting citizenship to it. The convergence of many disciplines in the making of Sofia namely IT, Chemistry, Mathematics etc. once again establishes the importance of trans-disciplinary culture for which Misbah - Niche of Knowledge stands for. Since each subsystem of life on earth is interrelated, only a trans-disciplinary approach will help to have a better understanding of the reality. The intra-relationship of the diversified zones abreast have ever been focused by a good number of accademic researches of the sort. In the post modern literary contexts as well, even a single theme invites different levels of thoughts at different perspectives. Misbah has always been promoting an academic culture satisfying the vital needs of research.
